A correspondent of the London Telegraph wides of them:

⁴⁵ A 83 ange and mottey crew, indeed, for every halvidical, although dressed in his hest and brashed up to extreme neatness, was clothed after his own lancy, or rather according to his means. One or two, Hun-garians or Slovacks by bitth, were huddled. up in skin coats edged with rough, wool or the every day garments of a prosperous sampulously clean; a large proportion of the whole was bearded after the patriarchal manner. Chairs had to be set for a few, and one poor old boy (who might have been any age you please over a hundred), terribly in-tim, and contracted in shape, had to be set sion. I must not omit to state that the Emperor completely won my heart by a little action, full of kindness and natural grace of which this shattered warrior was the object. After inspecting the two squares above men-tioned, and chatting pleasantly with a few of the veteriers, his Majesty's eye caught the pitiful speciacle presented by the ancient cripale counching on terra firma; he har riedly stepped towards the tribune, bent ovor the howed and wasted form, and patted it on the shoulder. The old soldier, looking up, hastily pulled off his hat, and tried to slit upright: the Emperor begged him to cover: biaself, and, as he hesitated to obey, took himsent, and, as the nestance to oney, cost his battered hat gently from his trembling land, and himself still carefully on his heart. His Majory then spake a few more electing words to him, pattrd him again on the shoulder, and withdress, touching his advantable to the minds here, he raise plumed hat to the crippled hero as he retir I saw the old man fumble for his blucotton handkerchird and press it hard to his eyes; perhaps, in his own stout heatt, he may have felt that this was the day of his It is by such incldents as this, hardly less Pedestriana.

The Weston fever prevails far and near, and its victions abound on either side. An amateur pedestrian train in Portland has jest rude five miles in 52.45, winning a wager that he could do it inside of 50 minutes. At Trey S Y., William Carlin undertook to walk one handred miles in twenty-five home, but after accomplishing thirty-six miles in nine hours, he shedaddled, leaving judges and spectators entirely in the lurch. A man by the manc of Shepherd has been backed to walk from Chicago to New Orleans in twenty days. He will have to averegressyemy-five miles a day. Mr. Thomas Nilou, who is going to try to walk to Boston and back to Providence in twenty hours in training for his "great undertaking," walked to North Attleboro' and returned to Providence -a distance of twenty-four miles- in four hours and fifteen minutes. A portion of the Treasurer's reports is in he hands of the printer. The Tribune's special says a bill will be introduced in the House, providing that when any civil officer, shall be impeached he shall be suspended during trial. The late whiskey raid by Collector Bailey will result in several criminal prosecutions, besides the confiscation of a large amount of property, Mr. Powell of Tennessee, will contest Butler's seal, the latter being a preminet rebel. The Herald's special says that Chief Juslice Chase considers that all U. S. Isaads. should be paid in specie, and favors a maiform currency throughout the world. He also thinks that our present banking system should be adopted by all civilized nations.
